The Force Protection Video LE10 and LE50 cameras are rugged HD design which incorporates Ambarella (NASDAQ: AMBA) made chips that allow cameras and other devices to record high definition video. It is the chip supplier of the popular GoPro® (NASDAQ: GPRO) sports cameras.

In further news, FPVD announced that it has received an order from the DHS/DEPARTMENT OF HOMELAND SECURITY for multiple LE50 and LE10 camera kits.

This is order is direct result of our recent attendance at a National Security Conference Expo.

The LE50 and LE10 are state of the art designed body cameras strategically built around the latest Ambarella chip sets (AMBA).

The LE50 key design features are:

Industry leading record time (10 hours @1080,12 hours @720)

50 hours of standby time

32GB of internal tamperproof storage

White LED illumination

Audio announcements

GPS recording

30 second pre and post record

Integration with VeriPic© Evidence Management Software.

“The LE50 was developed using current guidelines that Law Enforcement nationwide have written into their requirements for purchase of Bodycams for their officers. Our camera and software via VeriPic® meets and exceeds these requirements. We are also the first company to build into a Body Camera an audio announcement feature. When the camera first starts to record an announcement clearly states” ATTENTION AUDIO AND VIDEO RECORDING HAS STARTED, when the cameras recording mode is stopped it clearly states. ATTENTION AUDIO AND VIDEO RECORDING HAS STOPPED. Our studies show when someone is made aware of a recording taking place their attitude and demeanor tend to turn more positive and less aggressive towards police officers. The LE50 uses white diode lighting in our design. The reason mainly relies on a safety issue. Cameras that utilize IR lighting can be harmful due the brightness of the IR light and the fact that the human eye does not react to this source of light, there is a high probability of whomever looks at these lights can possible damage or injure their sight.”

Auscrete Corp (OTCBB: ASCK)

The company recently held meetings with investors in Milan recently to finalize details of a $16 million funding package that will enable their 1,500 home residential construction development in Jamaica to proceed. Acquisition of the financing will be on a long term interest only basis with the principal repayable at the end of the term.

Mr. Sprovieri, ASCK CEO, said “This financing will enable us to complete the acquisition of the land in Jamaica’s Northwest not far from Montego Bay. We will then set about final site planning and utilities figuration for the home sites in preparation for the systematic building of the homes”.

The company plans to construct a building materials manufacturing plant close by the residential housing estate where they will use their proprietary technology to construct 1,500 affordable homes, valued at approximately $135 million, over the next 5-6 years.

A Company spokesperson said that Auscrete Corporation had also been looking for opportunities to set up building materials production plants in other parts of the Caribbean, Central America and Mexico using the same standardized process that will be used in Jamaica.

“Of course, we are not overlooking our own home needs as the company has also defined financing to set up 2 new plants here in the US. One in Texas and one in Oregon” the spokesperson added.

Manufacturer and Construction contractor of "GREEN" energy efficient housing and commercial structures built from Auscrete developed lightweight hybrid concrete/insulation wall and roof panels. Structures built of this medium are very low maintenance and, being concrete, are highly resistant to insects and mold. They have considerable mass and are highly resistant to hurricane forces and earth tremors. They will not catch fire and burn. The insulation value, which is very high, is not subject to settling as happens in wood structured homes.
